DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 1-6, 15-18 and 25, in the reply filed on 06/30/2008 is acknowledged.
2. Newly added claims 26-39 are directed to non-elected claims 7-14 and 19-24, are not examined in this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1,2, 15, 16 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Mohri (US 6,515,669).

As to claim 1, Mohri discloses a method of configuring a three-dimensional (3D) information input device which performs information input operations using a finger device that is worn by a user and senses the user's finger movement, the method comprising steps of:

recognizing whether the user is wearing the finger device (Fig. 1(5)) and recognizing finger positions of the finger device (Fig. 1(1)); and adaptively configuring the 3D input device based on the recognition results (see Col. 11 lines 55-62).

As to claim 2, Mohri discloses the method of claim 1, wherein adaptively configuring the 3D input device comprises:

adaptively configuring a signal-processing unit (Fig. 1(11)), which processes movement signals sensed by the finger device, based on the recognition results (see Fig. 5 and Col. 6 lines 14-32); and adaptively configuring a device driver of the 3D input device based on the recognition results and basic set-up information used for information input (See Col. 9 lines 10-16).

As to claim 15, Mohri discloses a three-dimensional (3D) input device, which is adaptively configurable and performs information input operation using a finger device that is worn by a user and senses the user's finger movement, the 3D input device comprising:

a pre-processing unit which recognizes whether the user is wearing the finger device and recognizes the finger positions of the finger device (Fig. 1(1, 5)); and a signal-processing unit (Fig. 1(11)) which is adaptively configured to process movement signals output from the finger device worn by the user based on the recognition result of the pre- processing unit (see Col. 6 lines 14-32).

As to claim 16, Mohri discloses the 3D input device of claim 15 further comprising a device driver (Fig. 19A(22)), which is adaptively configured to process the movement signals output from the signal- processing unit based on the recognition result of the pre-processing unit and basic set-up information for information input (See Col. 9 lines 10-16).

As to claim 25, Mohri discloses the method of claim 1, wherein the recognizing finger positions of the finger device comprises recognizing the position of each of a plurality of fingers (see Fig. 2 and 3).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 3-6 and 17-18 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mohri in view of Rafii et al. (US 6,512,838).

As to claims 3 and 17, Mohri discloses the method of claims 2 and 16 respectively above.

However, Mohri does not teach the basic set-up information includes input scenario information related to arrangement of information items that are selected by finger movement and a language used for information input.

Rafii discloses methods for data acquired system wherein teach basic setup information including a language used for input (see Col. 8 lines 46-63).

It would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention was made to incorporate basic set-up information including language of Rafii into a method of configuring a three-dimensional (3D) information input device of Mohri, because this further promoting flexibility (see Rafii Col. 8 lines 46-63).

As to claims 4 and 18, Mohri discloses the method of claims 2 and 17 respectively above.

However, Mohri does not teach an application configures a soft keyboard based on the recognition results and the basic set-up information, when the application receives the recognition results and the basic set-up information from the device driver.

Rafii discloses methods for data acquired system wherein teach an application configures a soft keyboard (Fig. 1c(115)) based on the recognition results and the basic set-up information from device driver (see Fig. 3(200) and Col. 18, lines 39-56).

It would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention was made to incorporate an application configures a soft keyboard of Rafii into a method of configuring a three-dimensional (3D) information input device of Mohri, because this further promoting flexibility (see Rafii Col. 8 lines 46-63).

As to claim 5, Mohri and Rafii disclose the method of claim 4, wherein the application outputs the configured soft keyboard to an output device (see Rafii Fig. 3(80)).

As to claim 6, Mohri and Rafii disclose the method of claim 5, wherein the soft keyboard displays finger positions of the finger device on an array of information items that are selected by finger movements (see Fig. 1C and Col. 10 lines 9-39).
